Background:

Rössing Uranium, one of the world's largest operating open-pit uranium mines, is located in Arandis, Namibia. A proud subsidiary of CNUC Namibia, we are committed to responsible, sustainable, and ethical mining.

Rössing Uranium has been a cornerstone of Namibia's mining industry since 1976, supplying uranium to the global nuclear energy sector.

With a strong foundation in safety, sustainability, and responsible mining, we ensure our operations create lasting value for stakeholders and the communities where we operate.

Our commitment extends beyond extraction – we continuously invest in environmental conservation, employee development, and innovation to drive sustainable progress.
